About the New Bonnet.

A foolish little maiden bought a foolish little with a ribbon and a feather, and a bit of lace upon it;
And that the other maidens of the little town might know it, She thought she'd go to meeting the next Sunday, just to show it. But though the little bonnet was scarce larger than a dime,

The getting of it settled proved to be a work of

So when 'twas fairly tied, all the bells had stopped their ringing,
And when she came to meeting, sure enough, the folks were singing. So this foolish little maiden stood and waited at And she shuck her ruftles out behind and smoothed them down before. "Hallelujah! hallelujah!" sang the choir above ner head-

"Hardly knew you! hardly knew you!" were the words she tho't they said. This made the little maiden feel so very, very cross,

That she gave her little mouth a twist, her little head a toss; For she thought the very hymn they sang was all about her bonnet, With the ribbon, and the feather, and the bit of lace upon it.

And she would not wait to listen to the sermon or the prayer, But pattered down the silent street and hurried up the stair. Till she reached her little bureau, and in a band box on it, Had hidden safe from critic's eye, her foolish little bonnet.

Which proves, my little muidens, that each of you will find In every Sabbath service but an echo of your mird; And that little head that's filled with silly little Will never get a blessing from sermons or from prayers.
